Dear Dr. Bates,

I am writing to submit our manuscript entitled, “Evaluation of the Crosswalk between the ACPE Standards and the FIP Nanjing Statements”, for consideration for publication in the Pharmacy Education.

Pharmacy education continues to evolve throughout the world and each country is setting their own standards for what they believe quality education should be. The development of the International Pharmaceutical Federation Nanjing Statements provides a global comparison for countries to evaluate their current pharmacy education practices. The authors of this manuscript sought to share an approach that was used to compare and contrast US pharmacy education standards against the Nanjing Statements. We believe sharing of our work will provide valuable insight on just one of the many ways the Nanjing Statements can aid countries in advancing pharmacy education.

The manuscript we are submitting to you has not been published in another journal and is not under consideration for publication in any other journal. All authors have approved the manuscript and its submission to Pharmacy Education. None of the authors have any conflicts of interest to disclose. Investigational Review Board approval was not required for this research as no human subjects or human subjects data was involved.

Thank you for receiving our manuscript and for considering it for review. We appreciate your time and look forward to your response.

Kind regards,
